INMATE ESCAPES FROM JAIL

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

A Grant County Detention Center inmate was back in custody April 3, less than 24 hours after he leapt off the roof of the facility.

Steven W. Price, 25, of Harrison County, was last seen around 12:50 a.m. at the jail.

Price is a Class D state inmate who was serving a 10-year-sentence for burglary charges out of Harrison County.

Class D inmates have minimum security in jail and clean and do other labor daily throughout the county.

Kentucky State Police were notified at 2:52 a.m. and investigated the case.

Price was located and arrested on an escape charge around 10 p.m. at a residence in Cynthiana.

Grant County Jailer Terry Peeples, who was out of town during the incident, classified the incident as a walk-off and not an escape.

“This is our third walk-off in four years. That is extremely low. There is a walk-off that occurs somewhere in the state of Kentucky every day.”

- TERRY PEEPLES

almost everyday. Boone County had one walk-off the very next day.”

Peeples said Price left his cell area after a deputy jailer finished a walkthrough and headcount.

The inmate then went out a door to the outside recreational area.

Peeples said exterior doors to the recreational area in the Class D area are left unlocked as mandated by the Department of Corrections because of fire codes.

“Those doors are supposed to be alarmed so when they’re open the alarm sounds,” he said. “The door this gentlemen went out has been disabled. It’s not working.”

Peeples said he assumes the door being disabled was foul play, but the door is being fixed and deputy jailers will now check that they are working properly every shift.

News, chamber sponsor forum

Candidates for county positions ranging from jailer to judge-executive will take part in a “Meet The Candidates” Forum on April 16 and April 17.

The event, which is sponsored by the Grant County News and the Grant County Chamber of Commerce, will begin at 6:30 p.m. at Williamstown High School.

“I think it’s important that the chamber and the News partner on events like this to give voters a chance to hear from the candidates,” said Wade Gutman, executive director of the chamber.

Questions for the candidates can be sent to jbakernantz@grantky.com by 5 p.m. on April 15.

GRANT COUNTIAN OF THE YEAR - Ken Stone was awarded the chamber's highest honor.

EXCELLENCE IN BUSINESS - Carolyn Thomas Thompson of State Farm Insurance celebrates with her family, Steve, Megan and Alex.

EXCELLENCE IN EDUCATION - Deanna Cummins expresses her appreciation.

And the winners are . . .

The Grant County Chamber of Commerce's Annual Banquet was held April 5 at the Josephina in Dry Ridge. Awards were given for Grant Countian and Volunteer of the Year, as well as for Excellence In Business and Education.

See upcoming issues of the Grant County News for stories about the award winners.

High water, bridge repair causes issues

By Jamie Baker-Nantz
Editor

Residents of Russell Flynn and Heathen Ridge Road in Crittenden were left high and dry after more than seven inches of rain fell April 3 through April 5.

High water due to the heavy rain flooded the one end of the road, while bridgerepairs closed the other end of the road.

“What would happen if we needed an ambulance or the fire department?” asked Charlene Perkins, a resident of Russell Flynn Road.

DID YOU KNOW?

- The bridge replacement project on Heathen Ridge Road is expected to be finished by mid-April.

Perkins said on three different occasions the road was impassable until the swollen creek receded.

“Last night when I got home about 3 p.m. it was flooded again and it was 45 minutes until I could cross and then it still had water on it,” she said.

For Bryan Slaughter help for his three children who have some medical issues is a serious matter.

“I guess we’d have to call a helicopter if we had an emergency,” Slaughter said. “It’s also hard on people going to work and for getting the kids to and from school.”

Several children in the Grant County School District were unable to get to school on Friday, April 4, despite a one-hour delay for flooded roadways.

WATER : closes road

“Attendance was back to normal on Monday and Tuesday,” said Nancy Howe, public information officer for the district. Howe said parents can write a note stating the reason the student was absent and if it was due to high water blocking the roadway, the student will be given a principal’s excuse for the missed day. “We understand if we can’t get to them, then they can’t get to us,” Howe said. The biggest problem occurred in the afternoon when students were being transported home from school. The district sent home a note on April 2, informing parents that if the roadway was flooded the students would be left at their school until a family member could pick them up. Howe said district personnel checked the area twice a day during the rainy period to gauge the flooding. The bridge replacement over Wildcat Branch on Heathen Ridge Road

Bridge Notes:

- The bridge over the railroad on Eagle Tunnel Road should be open later this month, after being closed seven years causing residents in the area to drive an additional 40 minutes.
- Both bridges on Blanchett Road that have been closed because they failed a state inspection are scheduled for replacement, but the fiscal court has not received an official start date for the project.
- Other bridges that have been replaced in recent years include: Lusby Mill Road, Stringtown Road, Cordova Road, Mt. Zion/Napoleon Road and U.S. 25 in Williamstown.

was scheduled to begin in January, but subzero temperatures and above normal snowfall, delayed the project until April 1. Funding for the project came from a 80/20 matching grant after officials from the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet told the fiscal court to close the bridge because they deemed it unsafe due to load rating. Grant County Judge-Executive Darrell Link met with transportation officials on Aug. 28, 2013 and expressed concerns over the possibility of flooding in the low-lying area. “This would not only inconvenience the families on Heathen Ridge Road but would also increase the probability of them not having a way out or in if the bridge was closed and the low ford crossing was covered by water,” Link said. The bridge is expected to be opened by mid-April, but that is welcome news to residents in the area. “It’s a really bad nuisance,” said Perkins, who has lived in the area for a year and a half. “It’s been a big mess.” “I just can’t imagine why they took the bridge out in April when we always get April showers,” said Slaughter. “Every spring, just about every time it rains, that area floods.”

Webster receives Award of Honor

Bud Webster

Glencoe Fire Chief Bud Webster, who is also employed by the Florence Fire/EMS, was recently awarded one of the highest honors bestowed upon a firefighter. He earned the Award of Honor from the Northern Kentucky Firefighter's Association. The Award of Honor is the highest honor to be given to any living firefighter, as the Maltese Cross Award is reserved for firefighters who have lost their lives in the line of duty.

Webster received this award for his part in the rescue of a man from a submerged vehicle in Florence in May 2013. Upon his arrival at the scene, Webster immediately entered the water in an attempt to release the occupant.

A Florence ambulance arrived shortly after

Webster and firefighter/medic Adam Begley entered the water. Begley and Webster were able to gain access through a broken window and open the passenger door. The victim was strapped in the driver's seat by the seatbelt and as Begley struggles to remove the seatbelt, Webster worked to free the victim's legs.

Only four minutes after Webster arrived and only seven minutes from the call time was initiated, the victim had been freed.

Begley and Webster received their Awards of Honor at the Northern Kentucky Firefighter's Association Awards Banquet in January.

Webster began his fire service career with Glencoe Fire Rescue in 1994 and has been with the Florence/EMS since 2000.

WORTH REPEATING:

“You people are crazy!” - UK Coach John Calapari

PERSONALLY SPEAKING

Cats’ title loss hurts after miraculous run

I’m not going to lie, this one hurt.
I know I did not take one shot.
I didn’t miss one (or several) free throws.
But, still, with all the blue that runs in my veins, this loss hurt.
Going into the Kentucky Wild-cats’ quest for a ninth national title against Connecticut, I did not have a good feeling about coming out on top.

My prediction: UCONN by five. I was a point off.
If only I could have been wrong about the victorious team as well.

I am notorious for being a pes-simist about the Cats.

It’s just in my nature.
If we lose the opening tip, well it surely is going to be all downhill.

If we wear a certain color uni-form, then our odds of winning are diminished greatly.

(Side note: I did read some-where that Monday’s game was the first time UK wore blue in the championship game.)

When the tournament began and I saw the murderer’s row Kentucky was going to have to get through to make it far I all but gave up hope.

The opening win against Kan-sas State did not increase my opti-mism because I thought we had to at least win one game in this disap-pointing season.

I actually thought playing unde-feated Wichita State in the second round was a blessing.

I saw it as a daunting challenge that the young Cats would rise up for and rise they did.

I dreaded the rivalry rematch with Louisville more than anything. A loss to the Cardinals would hurt my soul.

Luckily, we were able to banish Pitino from a shot at back-to-back titles.

By a miracle and the kindness of my aunt and uncle, I was able to attend the Elite Eight game against Michigan in Indianapolis.

The atmosphere even before the game was electric.

Seeing the sea of Wildcat blue roaming the streets of Indy was what I imagine heaven looks like.

To be in person when Aaron Harrison hit a ridiculous three-pointer to send us to the Final Four was a moment I will cherish forever.

As we moved on to the semi-finals, I liked our matchup against Wisconsin, but I was leery of be-lieving we actually were going to make it to the championship in such a rollercoaster year.

I watched the game at a friend’s house, the same place I saw Lou-isville go down, wearing the exact same outfit.

A WORD FROM OUR READERS...

Threlkeld will serve with honor as judge

I am William Ford Threlkeld, the proud father of John Brent Threlkeld. My son is seeking to serve as the next Circuit Judge in the 15th Judicial Circuit, which includes Carroll, Grant and Owen counties. I opened my law practice in 1949 and due to health reasons I retired in 2010. I practiced law in front of many judges you may have known, Judge Ward Yager, Judge Jim Ford, Judge Charles Satterwhite and our current Judge Stephen Bates, as well as countless other state and federal judges.

I’m proud that Brent is running for judge. He was a pleasure to work with and I watched as he grew as a man and an attorney. I’ve seen him hold the hands of his clients when they were afraid. I’ve seen him refuse to back down even if the cause was not popular but held the course because the cause was right. He has helped other attorneys when they asked for help. I think Brent became a lawyer to help others solve problems and he took it to heart. Yes, I would like to say he did it to follow in my footsteps but the strides he has made are greater than mine.

Judges must be even-handed, patient, courteous and good listeners. Brent can do that because that is how he learned to get to the core of his clients’ issues and is able to find the cases to support their claims. Judges must listen to the facts and apply the law to fact in order to resolve the conflict between the parties. Brent can and will do just that. I remember finding him in the law library one afternoon reading the statue books and the case reports, when I said, “Why don’t you read the encyclopedia?” He responded “That’s next,” Yes, he is my son and yes, I am proud of him but I also think he is one of the best lawyers I have known and will be an able judge.

Judge Bates is retiring and we will have a new Circuit Judge. Judge Brent will serve us with honor, integrity and patience and will treat all persons with the dignity and respect, I would expect of him, regardless of who they are, who they may know or who has the loudest lawyer. Brent will not cower to anyone and will ensure that the lawyers respect the people who have cases before the court.

There is no better choice for Circuit Judge than John Brent Threlkeld. Sup-port him.

Hammons needs to continue as magistrate

As election time draws close, we are looking for people who will be good workers for our county. This year, we have many choices to pick from and this is a wonderful sign that our county is worth taking care of. There will be opportunities to go and listen to what these folks have to say, but one of the best ways is to look at the record of their involvement in the past.

Wanda Hammons has been a member of the EMT crew for many years. She may have been on the ambulance when you or a loved one needed a ride to the hospital. When she was appointed to fill the 2nd District Magistrate position, she investi-gated the job and found out all the de-tails. She makes sure that she works at least the 100 hours a month that the position requires. Often, there are many more hours devoted to ap-plying and securing grants for Grant County. Hammons is always avail-able to take a call from anyone. She will try and help wherever she can by fixing a pothole or replacing a bridge.

Wanda and her husband have been life long residents of Grant County and since she is the daughter of the present mayor of Dry Ridge, local concerns are a big part of her life. Her goal is to make a thriving community for all of us and especially for her grandchildren. We are lucky to have such an energetic and well-informed person working for our county. She needs to continue in this position.

Loretta Flerlage

Vote on issues, not political party

Some of the voters I’ve spoken to here in the area say they are Democrat or Republican and that’s how they vote. They don’t seem to know or care that their party may no longer stand for what it stood for when that became members of that party.

Both parties have good and bad poli-ticians, so if you plan on voting it is rec-ommended that you find out what the is-sues are and vote for the candidate that represents the way you feel, not because that person is of certain part or gender. In other words, vote for the person that you as an informed voter feel will do the best job for the office they are seeking or have proven themselves by doing a good job in the office they are holding and should be retained.

There is a lot of uninformed voters out there putting in or keeping candi-dates in office that are less qualified than the person they are running against. There will be a political forum in about two weeks, so if you plan on voting, I recommend you attend.

Before the forum starts you may provide written questions for the host to ask the candidates.

If you don’t want schmuck voted in or retain in the office they hold then become an informed voter and vote to put the new candidate in and get the old candidate out or retain the old candidate in the office they hold because of their job performance.

DOWN AND DIRTY

Thin vs. fat
asparagus?

I was catching up on some magazine reading the other day and on two occasions I read the phrase “choose thin spears” and I got so frustrated. These spring articles were about asparagus and I would like to go on the record that when it comes to homegrown asparagus (and even the wild growing in the fence rows) fat is good! The fat spears have always been tender from the garden so don’t let anyone fool you on the fresh from the garden variety. They are particularly well suited for the charcoal grill.

I have planted asparagus three times in my lifetime. First with my dad when I was 12-years-old- and we are still enjoying asparagus from that bed today. The second time was a small batch of a purple variety that never really amounted to much because we had a terrible drought that summer. And, the third and hopefully last was 100 crowns Andy and I set out in 2012. Planting asparagus is an investment on all accounts, time, labor, money, patience and then the big payoff, which is fresh asparagus for two months each spring right from your own garden. I look forward to this new bed really paying off this spring.

Perhaps you are not interested in the volume of work and yield that 100 crowns offers so maybe 25 planted in a permanent spot in the garden will suffice. Asparagus is a perennial so be certain about where you plant and be serious about preparing the planting bed. This is the hardest part but once it is done, it is done! Asparagus will continue to produce for 30 years or more if it is properly maintained, our original planting is proof of that.

Prepare a 10-inch deep trench that is about two feet wide; add lots of organic matter like composted manure if your soil is clayey. We use a stagger pattern to plant the crowns, imagine the paw prints of a cat and plant accordingly, spacing the center of the crowns about 12 inches apart. To get asparagus started it is not a bad idea to add a little phosphorus into the mix so I sprinkle a little bone meal into the trench before spreading out the roots of each crown and planting. Cover the crowns with about two inches of soil, reserving the remaining soil for later.

Jeneen

Weekend
Gardener

Harvesting asparagus
when the time is right

The unique thing about planting asparagus is that we add soil gradually over several weeks. Cover the crowns little by little as they emerge from dormancy and poke above the soil surface; that’s our prompt to add some more soil until we are back even with the soil surface. Keep the plants evenly moist during this time.

When you purchase your asparagus crowns it will be noted how old they are (you can tell, too, by how robust they are) if you purchased two to three-year-old crowns you can start harvesting a little by next year but it really is best to leave them be during the first year so they can go straight to fern. At the fern stage the plant can maximize photosynthesis and pack in the energy to develop a strong root system and therefore higher yields next year. Harvest a little next year and then you should be ready to really enjoy by the third year after planting

Long term maintenance includes weeding (which, as a perennial crop, does become a problem after years in the same place, try using corn gluten as a pre-emergent); also don’t cut asparagus tops (the ferny growth) back until it has naturally died back; the plants need to store energy throughout the summer and fall through their foliage for a good crop the following spring. We have done it all: hand cut, mower, fire and last year the best ever, we let the sheep graze the patch, which also eliminated leftover weeds! If you have pest problems burning it from time to time may help (the conditions must be right to get it ablaze, however). And, of course, only burn if you are safe to do so in proximity to others and to buildings. You can fertilize during active fern growth after the harvest season with composted manure or a balanced granular (I like the mixes that are organic like Espoma’s product line; or make your own mixing cottonseed meal, bone meal and kelp).

The hope of Easter

The Easter season is here! Hopefully spring will come and stay with this great holiday. Easter will be a celebration of the resurrection of Jesus Christ and the hope that it brings to believers. Easter Sunday is often the most attended services at most churches. I hope you have the opportunity to worship this year at your church. If you do not attend church or haven't in a while, Easter will be a great opportunity for you to go and even go for the first time.

The hope of Easter is lost if we do not remember what preceded the resurrection of Christ. We shouldn't separate Easter from Good Friday. On the Friday before Easter, we remember the crucifixion of Jesus Christ. His sacrifice provided atonement for our sin, forgiveness and because of the death of Jesus we have been made righteous before God.

Darrell MORGAN

to live in the pain and destruction of our sin.

Because of Jesus we have come out of darkness into the marvelous light of salvation through the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ. As you celebrate this year, I pray that you find hope in the Easter season and have the opportunity to worship on Good Friday and on Easter Sunday.

Amidst the Easter lilies, the new dresses, the candy and even the Easter Bunny, consider the significance of Easter and the true hope that comes from Good Friday and Easter Sunday. Jesus died but now he is alive!

INSIDE OUR SCHOOLS

WHO CAN BE A STAR STUDENT:

Any student can be recognized. All schools are encouraged to honor star students. Call 824-3343 for more information.

Williamstown

Preschool

Kaylei Jones

Kaylei Jones is the WES Preschool Student of the Week. She is in Dawn Clayton's class.

"Kaylei loves math! She has a very quick wit when it comes to subitizing. Kaylei also takes time to help out younger peers with the routines in the classroom," Clayton said.

Her favorite thing about school is making friends.

Her favorite books are Little Mermaid and Cinderella.

Her favorite thing to do as a family is play board games, go outside, ride bikes and go out to eat.

Primary

Isaac Espicio

Isaac Espicio is the WES primary student of the week. He is in Michelle Whaley's third grade class.

His favorite thing to do at school is going out to recess. "Isaac is the most hardworking student who gives 100 percent in everything that he does. He is very sweet and always follows the rules,"

Whaley said. His favorite book is Diary of a Wimpy Kid.

His favorite thing to do as a family is playing together.

Intermediate

Jemma Adams

Jemma Adams is the WES Intermediate student of the week. She is in Jessica Brann's fifth grade class.

Her favorite thing about school is learning something new.

"Jemma is a model student. She strives to do her best on each and every activity. Her personality shines through her creativity while performing skits and reader's theaters for the class. She is helpful and kind to all who cross her path," Brann said.

Her favorite book is Heaven Is For Real.

Her favorite thing to do as a family is to cook together.

Grant County Middle School

Trent Smith

Trent Smith is the Grant County Middle School Seminole Student of the Week.

He is an outstanding student who sets a positive example for other students to follow. He is ambitious and energetic with his involvement in school and sports and seeks high achievement in both.

He always conducts himself in a responsible manner and gives his personal best.

He is productive, organized, dependable and considerate.

Grant County High School

Mallory Robinson

Mallory Robinson is the Grant County High School Student of the Week. She is a freshman and is in Leigh Simpson's class.

"Mallory is a hard worker in class. She is thorough and diligent in her work and participates in class every day. She also does her best to set a good example outside the classroom as well," Simpson said.

Her favorite subject in school is French and math.

Her favorite book is any of Harry Potter and the Goblet of Fire by J.K. Rowling

Her favorite thing to do with her family is going to sporting events and spending time with them.

GCHS Winter Guard ends season as Scholastic A-2 Champions

The Grant County Winter Guard; front row, Hali Ashley, Taylor Lister, Sawyer Cobb, Courtney Covey, Destiny Taylor, Lilly Maggard and Dakota Palmer; middle row, Hailey Chadwell, Amber Hanna, Harley Delaney, Shelby Conrad and Lorynne Klette; back row, Sarah Harmeyer, Hayleigh Newby, Kayleigh Delaney, Alyssa Rose, April Gurski and Gabby Branch, received first place with a score of 81.48, performing their show titled “River” by Emeli Sande.

The Grant County Winter Guard, a division of the Grant County Band program, finished their season in the Tri-State Circuit Championships at Ryle High School receiving first place with a score of 81.48 performing their show titled “River” by Emeli Sande.

The staff composed of Jay Logan, Olivia Duguid, Johnny Harris and Mackenzie Dailey continued to improve the show as did the dedication of the Winter Guard members who were determined to achieve excellence, which was reflected in their rise in scores consistently throughout the five competitions.

The Grant County Winter Guard competed at Campbell County on Feb. 1 receiving second place with a score of 58.16, Conner on Feb. 22 receiving second place with a score of 66.35, Bryan Station on March 1 receiving first place with a score of 71.50, Milford on March 8 receiving first place with a score of 71.71 and finishing at Ryle with first place for the championship win with a score of 81.48.

The Grant County Winter Guard, a division of the Grant County Band program under the direction of Dr. Timothy Dailey and Andrew McGrannahan, is continuing to grow as a program and is looking forward to the next Winter Guard season.

WHS Lady Demons get first win

By Wade Holland
Sports Correspondent

After a dismal first two games that saw them score just two runs in a pair of crushing defeats, the Williamstown Lady Demons’ softball team turned things around in a hurry with 27 runs in their next two games, which included the Lady Demons’ first win of the season.

Williamstown bounced back from 16-1 and 15-1 losses with a 14-4 victory over visiting Pendleton County, followed by a 14-13 loss to defending District 32 champion Simon Kenton that most consider a moral victory for the young Lady Demons.

The quick offensive turnaround is pleasing to first-year Williamstown Head Coach Katie McLafferty, who was not surprised her team’s bats got off to slow start.

“I am very happy to see our hitting turn around as quickly as it did,” she said. “We were anticipating that being a problem early, partially because we didn’t get outside on the field as often as we would have liked in the preseason. But I am very happy that we made the turnaround early in the season as opposed to the middle or late in the season.”

Against Simon Kenton, which came into the game undefeated, Williamstown dug itself into an early hole before putting it together and mounting a comeback that gave the Lady Pioneers a scare. Williamstown was held scoreless in the first three innings before exploding for seven runs in the fourth inning, all on solid hitting.

“We knew going in it was going to be a really tough game. Simon Kenton is always a really good opponent,” McLafferty said. “When the girls saw that they could hit and field against Simon Kenton and compete against them, that is when things turned. That is what set this game apart from the rest. The girls confidence really soared.”

Cierra Magee led the Lady Demons’ offensive charge against Simon Kenton with five RBI and four defensive assists.

“Cierra was a big hitter in every at bat for us,” McLafferty said. “She always got the hits to score the runs that we needed to keep us going.”

Pitcher Jade Pinkston had six strike outs and a ball-to-strike ratio of 0.57. Meanwhile, Delaney Kemper, on defense, had seven outs for the Lady Demons.

In the win against Pendleton County, Williamstown again was led offensively by Cierra Magee with four RBIs, while pitcher Jade Pinkston had seven strike outs in the complete-game performance.

“We saw a lot of improvement in our hitting and our pitcher did real well,” McLafferty said. “It was a good win for us. It gives our confidence a boost.”

After taking spring break off, the Lady Demons are back to work and have a busy schedule ahead. One highlight for the Lady Demons is the upcoming All A Classic which starts Friday, April 11 at Eminence.

Success for the Lady Demons in the small school classic will come if the team keeps doing what they did against Pendleton County and Simon Kenton, McLafferty said.

“The girls have to keep their confidence up after the way we hit the last few games,” she said. “If the girls can take our current confidence and momentum with them into the Eminence game, I think we have a good chance for success.”

Hop on into Easter brunch with your family

Weekends and brunch just seem to go together, but who says they have to come together at a restaurant? Hosting family and friends in the comfort of your home for this ultimate weekend meal can be a breeze. Brunch doesn't need to be fancy or fussy. All you need is a couple of easy-to-prepare dishes and drinks to serve outdoors on the deck, around the dining room table or in the kitchen - it's your call. Serve up a stylish spread Whatever your style, it's a good bet that eggs will be part of the menu. Impress guests with a clever twist - combine two morning favorites, strata and baked eggs. The strata layer - bread, cheese and herbs - is nestled underneath two gently-baked eggs in ramekins lined with prosciutto or ham. It's easy to assemble and the result is impressive, both in looks and flavor. With Safest Choice Pasteurized Eggs, you no longer need to be concerned about serving eggs gently-cooked, such as sunny-side-up, poached or soft-boiled. There's also no need to worry about the use of raw eggs in homemade mayo, cookie dough or smoothies. By using an all-natural warm water bath pasteurization process, the risk of salmonella is eliminated without affecting the nutrition, flavor or cooking properties. So it's safe to enjoy runny yolks because the eggs are pasteurized. Safest Choice eggs are hormone and antibiotic-free, vegetarian-fed and Kosher. And each egg is stamped with a red "circle P" to identify that it has been pasteurized by the company's patented process.

Simple, flavorful additions

Serving is no-fuss. Each guest gets an individual ramekin, so there's no dishing up at the last minute. Accompaniments can be as simple as a mixed greens salad, a platter of seasonal fruits and favorite brunch cocktails. Of course, there must be plenty of great coffee, too. Enjoy these tasty stratas worry free since: pasteurized peace of mind. For additional recipes for every season and occasion, or to learn more about Safest Choice Pasteurized Eggs, visit www.SafeEggs.com. Individual Cheese & Herb Stratas Preparation Time: 20 minutes Cook Time: 25 minutes

Makes: 4 servings

- 8 thin slices prosciutto or deli ham
 - 2 cups French or Italian bread pieces (1-inch pieces)
 - 2 tablespoons melted butter
 - 1/2 cup crumbled goat cheese (see note)
 - 1/4 cup chopped fresh herbs (see note)
 - 8 Safest Choice Pasteurized Eggs
 - Salt
 - Coarse ground black pepper
 - Minced bell pepper (optional)
 - Chopped fresh herbs (optional)
- Preheat oven to 400°F. Butter bottom and sides of four 10 to 12 ounce ramekins or spray with nonstick cooking spray

Line each ramekin with 2 slices prosciutto or ham with some extending over sides.

In large bowl, toss bread pieces and melted butter together. Stir in cheese and herbs. Divide mixture evenly among ramekins pressing down lightly. Break 2 eggs into each ramekin. Add salt and pepper, as desired. Sprinkle bell pepper around eggs, if desired.

Place ramekins on rimmed baking sheet. Bake 25 to 30 minutes, until whites are set and yolks begin to firm, or to desired doneness.

Garnish with additional herbs, if desired. Notes: * Other cheeses, such as cubed mozzarella or Cheddar, may be substituted for goat cheese. * One or a combination of herbs such as basil, rosemary, thyme, chives or parsley may be used.

Cheese, Bacon, Egg Casserole

Plan an Easter gathering everyone can enjoy with a make-ahead menu that includes crowd-pleasing brunch casseroles packed with everyone's favorite flavors - and leaves you plenty of time to spend with the family. "Combine all-star breakfast ingredients like eggs, bacon and cheese into a single dish in this Cheesy Bacon & Egg Brunch Casserole, seasoned with ground mustard and nutmeg," said Chef Kevan Vetter of the McCormick Kitchens. "The best part about this recipe is you can assemble it the night before - just add an additional 1/2 cup of milk - chill it in the refrigerator and bake it off in the morning." Serve a spring-inspired dessert topped with an array of fresh fruit to complement your brunch casserole.

Demons' bats come to life against Bracken

By Wade Holland
Sport Correspondant

After witnessing his team score just six runs in seven games to start the season, Williamstown baseball coach A.J. Mason wondered when all the hard work his Demons were putting in would start to pay off.

He got his answer Saturday when Williamstown's bats came alive and generated six runs in two innings against Bracken County in what is easily the Demons' best offensive performance to date. Unfortunately, the Demons could not capitalize late in the game and lost 7-6 in 10 innings, though that did not change Mason's outlook on how his team played.

"I'm very pleased with the way the guys came out and hit the ball," he said. "That shows that what we're doing is paying off."

"We came out swinging the bat and we hit the ball better than we had all year," Mason said. "We just couldn't get that big hit with runners in scoring position. And we had plenty of opportunities."

Williamstown, which did not score again after putting up six runs in the first two innings, had the bases loaded with one out in the ninth inning but left all three runners stranded.

Junior Tony Campbell led Williamstown offensively, going 3-for-5 with two runs scored, while seventh-grade teammate Corey Fryman knocked in three runs while also going 3-for-5 at the plate.

Senior Drew Harris added one hit and scored two runs for the Demons. Sophomore Austin Jones added one hit, while freshman Caleb Thompson and junior Jimmy Fryman each had a sacrifice for an RBI.

Freshman Jacob Scroggins pitched seven strong innings, giving Bracken County hitters fits with 10 strike outs.

"He pitched well enough to win and we should have won," Mason said.

Thompson came on in relief and worked the final three innings, striking out three in the process.

While he was happy with how his team hit the ball early, Mason was equally pleased with how well his defense played by committing only two errors in the extra inning.

Williamstown, which missed its first win of the season by one run each in two recent games, will be back in action on Thursday, April 10 at Eminence in All A Classic action. The small-school tournament is an exciting time for Williamstown, one of the smallest schools in the 8th Region.

Like Williamstown, Eminence is also currently winless and has had issues offensively, scoring just six runs in four games.

But for Williamstown, it's no secret what the keys to success are.

"For us, the key is hitting," Mason said. "Our defense is solid and our pitching has been good enough to win just about every game we've played. If we hit, we'll give ourselves a good chance to win."

Williamstown was slow out of the gates and did not get its first hit until the sixth inning, but once the Demons got rolling they did a lot of things right, scoring two runs in the final inning off four hits, prompting Coach A.J. Mason to praise his young Demons.

"I was very happy with the way the guys battled and didn't give up," he said. "That showed a lot of mental toughness."

"We preach to the guys that hitting is contagious," Mason said. "When we hit the ball good things happen."

Senior Jordan Barnes led the Demons' offensive attack with one hit and two RBIs. Seventh grader Corey Fryman added one hit and one run, while juniors Tony Campbell and Jimmy Fryman and senior Drew Harris all added one hit apiece.

Austin Jones, a sophomore, made his first career pitching start, allowing only six hits in five innings of work with a pair of strike outs. He was relieved by Scroggins and Harris, each putting in one inning with two strike outs each.

Ludlow 7, Williamstown 0

Playing on a field that was still wet from the recent rains, Williamstown struggled defensively with five errors in the shutout road loss.

Trailing just 2-0, Williamstown committed three errors in the fifth inning as Ludlow plated five runs.

"We didn't play defense very well at all," Mason said. "With the field being a little wet, the ball was slow and we didn't charge it like we should have."

Junior Derek Cummins started on the mound for Williamstown and worked five strong innings with two strike outs. He was relieved by senior Drew Harris, who struck out two in two innings on the hill.

Lawmakers reflect on 2014 session

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

What are your thoughts on the recent passage of the two-year state budget?

Sen. Damon Thayer, R-Georgetown: Based on the current political makeup in Frankfort with Democrats controlling the House and Republicans controlling the Senate and the Democrats’ desire to support more spending and not less, I’m pretty happy with the way the budget came out. We were able to make sure that Gov. Steve Beshear cannot use any state dollars to fund ObamaCare. We were able to reduce the overall debt and structural imbalance from the level recommended by the Democrats. Those were pretty big victories for the taxpayers. The other good news from the budget is that, in very difficult financial times, we were able to come out with a budget that increases money for education. That’s something that will be good for the local school districts, teachers and staff. We had to make cuts in other areas to do it, but it’s something that was important to do.

Rep. Brian Linder, R-Dry Ridge: What I liked about it was it gave teachers and state employees a much needed raise. They had not had one in several years. It also kept the funding of ObamaCare out of the general fund. What I didn’t like about it is that it does assume some debt. I actually was back and forth over whether I was going to vote for it or against it based on the debt. However, it wasn’t a lot. At the end of the day, this is a compromise between the Republican Senate and the House Democrats. To make things work, that’s what we have to do. We have to compromise. The main thing I think we all need to take away from this is that we got a budget deal done. We didn’t go beyond the 60 days and have to be called back for a special session at the expense of taxpayers.

When the General Assembly returns April 14-15 for the final two days of the session, do you see anymore bills being passed?

Thayer: Right now, the biggest outstanding issue is passage of the two-year road plan. That’s important for Grant County because the improvements to the interchange in Williamstown are in the plan. As far as other big issues, I think most of them are probably done for this session. But, I’ve learned to never say never.

Linder: When we go back I think there will be some smaller bills that are probably good things we’ll work out and get passed in those last two days. There are two main things out there. One is the heroin bill. The problem with the heroin bill right now is that there is 15 floor amendments. One of those is the needle exchange program. That has really put the stop on the heroin bill. I sit next to the judiciary chair and he was going to work hard over this two week period to try to get some compromises so we can try to get something passed. Then there is the road bill. I was very disappointed with the road bill that passed out of the House. They stripped almost all of the projects from Grant County. Fortunately, we have a very powerful senator, Sen. Thayer, who was able to make sure the money got put in. They took the money out of the two-year road plan that included the money to redo the road leading to the Ark project and they pushed that into the six-year road plan. My point was that it made no sense to fix the road after the park was open. We should redo that road while they are building the park. This is an economic engine for the rest of the state. It made no sense to play partisan politics. Fortunately, our senator got it back in. But, I don’t know what the final plan will be.

There has been concern that the Brent Spence Bridge project could be hampered without proper funding, including the ability to use tolls. What do you see as the future for this project?

Thayer: The legislature has passed a bill that would not allow tolls at the Brent Spence Bridge. But, the Senate is making funding available as a priority in the road plan to keep the design and planning moving forward on the bridge. I believe there needs to be another plan to pay for the bridge besides tolls. I think it’s the responsibility of the federal government to pay for most of that bridge. It’s carrying 5 percent of our nation’s gross-domestic-product and traffic from Michigan to Florida. It’s one of the greatest arteries of commerce in the country and it shouldn’t fall on the backs of northern Kentucky residents to pay for it.

Linder: I heard overwhelmingly from the people that they did not want tolls. I know the governor and some business leaders in northern Kentucky are promoting tolls and I understand why. But, the people in overwhelming numbers send us messages that they do not want to pay tolls. The main sticking issue for us is we pay the federal government a gas tax for infrastructure, including bridges. What really touched me is that I had a constituent send me a letter and she told me the number of bridges we built in Afghanistan and Iraq. And her point being that she didn’t understand why taxpayers can pay for the bridges being built in other countries, but when it comes to bridges in our own country, we want to put a toll or a tax on the local people. I think there are some leaders who believe it belongs in the federal government. People in Washington say there are going to be no building projects, including bridges. So, I think it’s at a standstill for now.

With the session winding down, what is your overall assessment of how things went this year?

Thayer: Overall, I feel pretty positive about the session. The fact that we were able to come to an agreement on the budget given the current political makeup in Frankfort is a good step. We were there for 18 hours until 5:30 a.m. Obviously, it’s not perfect, but it’s a pretty good budget under the circumstances.

Linder: It was very slow legislative session. we didn’t get a lot done. I think that was due to the upcoming elections in November and the fear of people having to run on certain issues. I was on the school snow bill conference committee and worked hard to get that deal through that would benefit the districts that I served. So, that was rewarding to be on the inside and get that pushed through. At times, we thought it was dead. I really hope we can get something worked out with the heroin bill. We need to compromise on this issue. It may not go as far as some people want, but we need to get something in the pipeline rolling. If we need to come back in later sessions and strengthen it or change something we can.

Horses found dead on Pendleton Co. property

Animal control officials are investigating a farm in Pendleton County after horses were found dead on the property. Pendleton County Animal Control Officer Scott Pracht went to the property on Highway 177 West in the DeMossville area early Monday afternoon to follow up on an investigation, a Pendleton County dispatcher said.

Larry Browning, 63, of Butler, has been cited for 49 counts of not disposing of an animal carcass (horses) within 48 hours.

Trooper Corey Rich of Kentucky State Police Post 6 in Dry Ridge is investigating. Additional charges are pending. The first officer arrived on the property at about 2 p.m. Officials remained on scene until after 9 p.m.

Some horses were found alive on the farm and were taken into animal control’s care, but it was unclear where they were being housed.

“Our animal shelter isn’t equipped to house horses,” the dispatcher said.
